3. THE RIGHT YOU WANT TO EXERCISE

You can request to exercise any of the following rights: access, correction, removal, opposition, processing restriction, transferability, the right to not be subject to an automated decision, to withdraw your consent and to be notified of the applicable guarantees when your data is transferred internationally, and the following list is provided so you can state which right you wish to exercise.

Specify which right you wish to exercise from the following drop-down list:

- Right to access and, specifically, indicate what you want to be provided from the following drop-down list:
 - Whether or not we are processing your personal data at DOMINION .
 - Where the data comes from, if you did not provide it for us
 - The reasons why your data is being processed.
 - The types of data concerned.
 - The recipients or types of recipients this personal data is disclosed to, particularly recipients in third parties or international organisations.

- If possible, the expected personal data retention period (or, if this is not possible, the criteria used to determine this period).
- If DOMINION makes automated decisions - including profiling - using your personal data.

- Right to correct and, specifically, indicate what you want to be provided from the following drop-down list:
 - Completing personal data when it is incomplete.
 - Updating or correcting personal data if it is no longer consistent with the current situation or if it is inaccurate.

- Right to remove and, specifically, indicate what you want to be provided from the following drop-down list:
 - If your data is no longer deemed necessary for the reasons it was collected or processed.
 - You withdraw your consent that we base our processing of your data on and it cannot be justified under any other legal basis.
 - You have successfully exercised your right to object to your data being processed.
 - The personal data has been processed in an unlawful manner.
 - The personal data must be deleted so as to comply with a legal obligation imposed on DOMINION.

- Right to restrict processing and, specifically, indicate what you want to be provided from the following drop-down list:
 - You have requested that your personal data be corrected, within a period of time that will allow DOMINION as the responsible party, to verify the accuracy of this data.
 - The data has been processed in an unlawful manner and you object to its deletion, requesting that DOMINION its use be restricted instead.
 - DOMINION no longer requires the personal data for processing purposes, but you need it to present, pursue or defend complaints.
 - You oppose processing whilst the legitimate reasons of DOMINION overriding your entitlement are being verified

- Data Transfer Right: You will be entitled to receive the personal data you made available to us in a structured, commonly used and machine-readable format, and also to forward it on to another data controller without DOMINION being prevented from doing so. You are also entitled to request that we disclose your personal data directly to another data controller whenever it is technically possible. Nevertheless, you will only be entitled to this right when we are processing your personal data pursuant to your consent or we are processing your personal data pursuant to a contract entered into with you and processing is automated.

- Right to object: You are entitled to request that we stop using your personal data, e.g. when you believe the personal data we possess about you might be incorrect or you believe we have no further need to use your personal data. If we process your data for direct marketing purposes, you are entitled to oppose this, including profiling, insofar as it is related to direct marketing. To this end, you are entitled to exercise this right or to request that we stop sending you marketing messages by opting out or unsubscribing in any marketing email that we send you. You are entitled to oppose at any time - for reasons relating to your specific situation - in relation to any processing of your personal data performed with our "legitimate interests" forming the legal basis, whenever you believe that your entitlement overrides ours. Having said this, DOMINION we can continue to process your personal data if we can justify that we have an overriding legitimate interest or that DOMINION we need to process your data to present, pursue or defend complaints

- Entitlement to not be subject to automated decisions based on the processing of your personal data, including profiling: You are entitled to oppose being subject to a decision that DOMINION. makes based purely on the automated processing of your data and with no human involvement. However, you are only entitled to this right if this decision is legally binding on you or otherwise significantly affects you. If you have been subject to the aforementioned type of decision but disagree with it, you can contact DOMINION and request that we review this decision, seeking human action, express your point of view or oppose the decision in any applicable way. You are not entitled to oppose an automated decision when: i) It is required to enter into or perform a contract with you, ii) It has been authorised by Law and appropriate measures are in place to safeguard your rights and privileges, or iii) It has been made with your express consent.

Please inform us of any details you deem necessary or relevant for us to deal with your request in most suitable way

You must submit this form duly completed, including a photocopy of your official identity document which is recognised to be valid by Law. If you are acting on behalf of a third party, you must provide the appropriate document for the representative and a document supporting the fact that you are representing the interested party.

You will receive a reply within 30 days, which could be extended by another two months, depending on the complexity of the request or DOMINION the number of requests to be addressed.

Indicate how you want to receive your reply:

- By e-mail
- By postal mail
